High Pathogenic Avian Influenza (HPAI)

As many are aware, Avian Influenza (aka Bird Flu) has been identified as being present on at least two SW Ontario farms at the time of this writing. Avian Flu is transmitted, on the most part, by migrating waterfowl, a situation common in early spring. Ontario Chicken Farmers, CFIA and the entire agricultural community is working swiftly to do everything possible to contain the spread of this virus. To do our part, Jones Feed Mills has enacted several emergency procedures including sanitizing all incoming supply vehicles, using bio-secure measures at all office and mill entrances, and utilizing disinfecting procedures in and outside of the control zones for both JFM delivery and sales vehicles and personnel. For more information on Avian Influenza, prevention measures or JFM's approach to managing this situation, please call 1-800-265-8735.

Brenna McKeeman Joins JFM Customer Service Team

It is with enthusiasm that we announce that Brenna McKeeman has joined the JFM Customer Service Team in Linwood. Brenna started with Jones in January and settled in quite quickly, as Brenna has feed mill customer service experience from a previous role as a store manager at another feed business. In her role, Brenna will receive and process feed orders from customers and dealers as well as support the JFM purchasing department. When asked about what she is looking forward to in her role with Jones, Brenna comments, "I am looking forward to being involved with the agriculture industry as well as furthering my ag knowledge and developing my problem-solving skills!" Brenna is a graduate of Ridgetown College (2019) and lives with her fiancé, Matt and their two cats on a farm NE of Guelph where they own and manage a flock of 350 commercial ewes. Brenna and Matt also keep busy with their roles as directors with the Ontario Youth Lamb Producers. In her spare time, Brenna likes to garden, and when not in the barn or at work, she likes to bake. Please join us in welcoming Brenna to Jones Feed Mills!
