Your Calves and the Cold Weather

Calf Cold Weather Tip # 1

Bedding is always important for calves, but it is extra important in cold weather. Clean, dry bedding is crucial to keeping calves healthy. Straw is the best bedding to keep calves warm. When your calves lay down, their body heat warms the straw beneath them. Straw will retain this heat which will in turn, warm the calf. As a rule of thumb, in cold weather when a calf lays in straw, you shouldn't be able to see its knees.

For more cold weather calf tips, ask for a copy of the current Bi-Monthly Bawl (by Tom Mosterd) from your JFM Dairy Rep or contact Tom directly at 519-807-3870.

Now That They're Here!

By now most of the calves have arrived, have been processed and are settling in. What's on most producers' minds now is what happens in the coming months is going to have a great impact on how much return there will be on their investment.

The Jones Feed Mills Beef Team is trained on how to make the most of your investment by creating feed programs which include key ingredients that perform to your expectation while monitoring the entire process.

Talk to a member of the Jones Beef Team to learn how they and the Jones STRESSFIGHTER Program can help you maximize the opportunity your cattle offer while they monitor your cattle's performance using new Jones monitoring tools.
