2018 JFM Christmas Toy Drive

Jones Feed Mills is once again holding its annual Toy Drive. To make this year's event a success, we are reaching out to ask for donations of toys (toddler to teens) along with new articles of clothing; pajamas, underwear, socks, and warm outer-wear. Everything we collect will be given to local charities. Please drop toys and clothing items off at any JFM Mill location by December 14th and receive a gift certificate for a free package of Black Creek sausage!

It's Winter-Time – Please keep your laneway clear. ☺

Now that its winter-time, Jones Feed Mills would like to remind all customers to please keep laneways clear of snow and ice when receiving feed orders.

We further request that you keep the area around your feed bins and feed rooms accessible for our drivers to work safely without obstruction. Let's keep everyone safe and on the road!

Trish Dunn Joins JFM as Market Support Specialist

Jones Feed Mills is excited to announce the appointment of Tricia (Trish) Dunn to the newly created position of Market Support Specialist. In her role Trish will be providing field support and data analysis services to the JFM dairy and beef teams. This approach is further demonstration of Jones Feed Mills desire to support our customers by providing services of value on the farm. Before her appointment to Jones, Trish was with Canwest DHI as a field service representative and when not testing cows worked with Eldale Vet Clinic as a receptionist and animal care assistant. Trish did her master's at the Ontario Veterinary College where she focused on dairy health. Her project was based on the effects of lung lesions in calves on their survival and first lactation performance. When asked how her new role is a fit for her, Trish comments, "I love to learn, and this role will teach me a lot about both the beef and dairy industry. It also allows me to problem-solve and help farmers improve livestock performance." Trish goes on to say that she "gets to hang out with cows which makes for a great day!" When not on the road with the Jones sales team, Trish enjoys horse-back riding, hanging out at the family cottage and watching her favourite hockey team, the Leafs! All of us at Jones Feed Mills welcome Trish to JFM.

Mill Update: Its All Above Ground Now!

The new George Robert Jones Product Plant is beginning to show life above ground. Much of the basement - which houses some of the mixers and the boiler room is complete. The frame for the building portion of the mill is currently being installed. JFM salutes the many contractors that have been working on this project and thank them for their tireless efforts through a tough grind of fall weather.

2018 Corn Harvest Toxin Update!

As many are aware, the 2018 corn crop has high incidence rates of mycotoxins, depending on the area. To update you, JFM continues to take all precautions to avoid using high vomitoxin corn and corn-influenced ingredients in our feeds. The JFM Nutrition Department encourages all producers to test all on-farm corn influenced ingredients (corn silage, dry and high moisture corn etc) for toxins and to work with their JFM Sales Consultant to devise a plan to manage the presence of any toxins in their feed or ingredients. Further, it is recommended that when handling high toxin feeds, that you do so in well ventilated areas. Below is an OMAFRA chart outlining the concern and effect levels of various toxins. Talk to your JFM Sales Consultant to learn more.

Mycotoxin	Concern Level (ppm)	Harmful Cattle (ppm)	Harmful Swine (ppm)
DON/Vomitoxin	0.56	2.5 to 6.0	0.6 to 1.0
Zearalenone	0.56	3.9 to 7.0	0.6 to 3.9
T-2	0.25	0.7 to 1.5	0.7 to 1.5
HT-2	0.25	1.5 to 3.0	1.5 to 3.0

Antimicrobial Update – Health Canada

As of December 1, 2018, antimicrobials will no longer be sold at livestock medicine outlets. You will require a veterinary prescription to purchase any product containing antimicrobial ingredients. Note, ionophores and coccidiostats will not be affected. Talk to your JFM Rep to learn more.
