Phill Woodhouse joins Jones Feed Mills

Jones Feed Mills is excited to announce that Phill Woodhouse of Kimberley, Ontario has joined the JFM Beef Team in the role of Beef Sales Consultant. Phill's experience in the cattle industry is very broad as seen by the various roles he has been involved in since graduating from the University of Guelph with a BSc in Agriculture in 1998. Previous to attending U of G, Phill went to Centralia College where he took Agriculture Business Management. After graduation, Phill worked a year abroad, spending time in both New Zealand and Australia on both dairy and beef farms. Once back home, Phill sold feed as a ruminant account manager, as well as farm inputs for a local feed supplier. Phill would later go on to spend much of his career to date at Top Meadow Farms in Clarksburg, ON; where he worked for both the feedlot and cow/calf divisions. On the home front, Phill and his family farm a cow/calf operation after having an organic sheep flock for several years. Phill is a welcome addition to the JFM Beef and Sales Teams, as we feel Phill will bring great value to JFM customers with his education and experience. Please join us in welcoming Phill to Jones Feed Mills!

Which One of These Cows is Heat Stressed?

If you answered "both", you are correct. Heat stress begins to effect dairy cattle at a THI (Temperature Humidity Index) of 68. A 68 THI is created when the temperature is 22°C and humidity is at 50%.

Blue Line is a unique product only available from Jones Feed Mills that consists of a combination of key ingredients that help keep your cows hydrated.

To beat the heat this summer, talk to a Jones Dairy Sales Consultant about Blue Line along with management aids and practices that will keep your cows cool this summer!

Remove the Wrap!

As always, but particularly in the warmer months, JFM reminds you to remove the plastic wrap from your skid of bags upon receipt. Keeping the plastic wrap around your feed will promote sweating due to atmospheric humidity and/or feed being bagged when warm and can cause mold and/or mustiness. So, to beat the heat, remove the wrap!

Helping your Hens

Over the last 2-3 years, demand for small flock and backyard hens for egg production, has soared. This demand was created through Covid and a want to produce one's own food. This demand is now greater than the current supply. If you find yourself without replacement hens, reach out to your JFM Poultry Team to learn ways to preserve your hens' production and health. Call 519-698-2082 if we can help!
